Counsel for Frank Sheldon, indicted for the murder of his wife, Eva Remington Sheldon, are making elaborate preparations for the trial which takes place in January. strenuous efforts, it is said, will be made to secure the prisoner's acquittal on the ground that the woman committed suicide while suffering from a temporary fit of insanity, superinduced by jealousy. It is also stated that Dr. A. L. Hall of Fair Haven has been retained by the defense as an expert witness. - Last Sabbath was an interesting occasion in the experience of the Presbyterian church. The service was devoted to the purpose of identifying the children more closely with the life of the church. It was largely conducted by them. The Scripture lesson was read, hymns were sung, recitations were given and the offering was taken up by members of the Sabbath school. One interesting and impressive feature of the service was the baptism of children. Seven children were baptized, among them the son of the pastor who was baptized by the Rev. Dr. Arthur S. Hoyt at the Auburn Theological seminary. Dr. Hoyt in his remarks spoke of the appropriateness of such a service at the Christmas season, which celebrates God's "best gift to man, a Little Child." The day was closed appropriately by a sermon in the evening by Dr. Hoyt on "The Children of the Covenant and the Prophets." It is hoped that this will be a regular and frequent element in the life of the church hereafter.

SHORT WORDS

Mr. Editor:—I was very glad to notice in your last issue that you called attention to Mr. Richards the photographer who has recently come among us. And it suggested to me one way in which every man and woman can assist the Citizens' Industrial Association which is now being formed and aid very materially in advancing the interests of the village that is, by telling their friends and acquaintances in this and adjoining towns of some of the merits which many of the business enterprises of the village possess. I have examined Mr. Richards' work with a good deal of delight but would not undertake to express an opinion had I not heard a judgment given by one who knows far more about art than I do and I feel confident that no one in Western New York will give any better satisfaction than the photographer of our village. I also wish to say that I have more than a score of pamphlets and catalogues published in New York City and Boston and some of them gotten up with very little regard to cost but no one of them reflects more credit upon the printer than a copy I recently examined printed in the Advertiser office for parties in an adjacent town.

We should also extend a knowledge of the fact that we have a Sanitarium presided over by a genial, kind hearted physician of large ability and under the care of this institution the ill can find relief and the weary find rest at an expense much less than is charged in many other institutions possessing less merit than the Sanitarium of Union Springs. The whole village should be proud of the fact that our coal and lumber yards furnish those necessities of life at prices much lower than those for which they can be purchased in yards south, east, north or west of us. In fact we have a great many enterprising, intelligent business men in Union Springs who know that it is far better to make 5 per cent. upon their capital five or six times over than it is to make to per cent. once. Do I hear you say that this is too personal? Why not be personal; you like to print long columns setting forth the value and virtue of those who are dead when it can be so earthly used to them. When it is so well deserved why not say a good thing of a man while he is living. If all the people of Union Springs would get rid of any feeling of jealousy or fear of some one else prospering and realize the fact no one man can be successful in any legitimate enterprise without benefitting all others this village would awaken to an era of prosperity greater than any we have ever known. If actuated then by motives no higher than our own selfish interest let us all speak a good word everywhere we can for all the different enterprises of Union Springs. E. Cook.

Cutters and Sleighs at Richards's. - In Auburn for a long time past there have been rumors about concerning a certain unknown man who, it was alleged, was attired in woman's garb and could be seen on dark nights passing from tree to tree in the shadow of residences in the southern portion of the city. These rumors have been discredited, and it was not until last Thursday night that the vague being assumed conventional garb and openly made his presence known. He was dressed in a dark suit. His object, apparently, is attacks on women, and that night he made a danarilly attack on a defenseless woman. The victim was Mrs. Frank R. Collins, the wife of a street railroad conductor, whose home is at No. 21 Mary street. Mrs. Collins left her home about 8 o'clock to make some Christmas purchases. On Elizabeth street a man came up behind her and put his hand around her throat, telling her to be quiet and she would not be harmed. But Mrs. Collins, instead of obeying the injunction, let out a loud scream. The man immediately struck her in the face, which raised merry screams that aroused the neighborhood. The man made good his escape, and Mrs. Collins was taken home. Her face was badly cut and swollen.

The length of life may be increased by lessening its dangers. The majority of people die from lung troubles. These may be avoided by promptly using Our Minute Cough Cure. N. W. Rogers.

The Moravia postoffice was robbed Tuesday night. Entrance being effected through a back window. Five dollars in change was taken from the money drawer which was broken open. No other loss was discovered. - An exchange says that on the 10th of a sixty years ago, snow fell over this state to the depth of over two feet. Apples, corn and potatoes were not harvested. The snow was heavy and damp and did not melt off in three days. There followed several weeks of fine dry weather.

THE LABORER WORTHY OF HIS HIRE. In the rehearing of expert Hamilton's claim before the committee of the board of supervisors on Friday, Mr. Hamilton's bill of $200 for services as chemist and microscopist in the Bergen murder case and the case of Lillie for assault was finally settled at the original cut to $200. The testimony of Dr. William Madison Smith, professor of chemistry in Syracuse university, was given to the effect that Mr. Hamilton's bill was not only fair but extremely moderate, being at least 1/3 to 1/10 below the average charge by expert professionals for similar services. Despite the evidence the board decided as above. The constant effort of the board to belittle the value of expert evidence and their high handed manner of cutting and slashing bills generally does not indicate a true economy based on just principles of liberality and equity. It inhibits rather a dubious and doubtful avenue against Auburn and its business and professional men generally, to serve in the award of local contracts to parties outside the county. Such feeling should be changed by those members of the board who prefer massy and business like methods, before it results in anything more inconvenient than forcing those performing official services to insist upon a cost set before entering upon expert or other work for the county. - Auburn Journal.
